In the Citi

July 21, 2009; 10:53 am by Leigh Goldman Balber

In this post-Madoff, post-mortgage-meltdown world, it's hard to walk a city block without seeing an empty storefront or a "for lease" sign. So it's refreshing to hear about a business that's expanding.

Citibabes, Soho's mod mecca for parents and kids, just opened CitiGym, a new playspace and classroom at the club for mini members ages 0-5. That's in addition to Citibabes' 1,500-square-foot playground, adult gym and cafe. CitiGym (open to Citibabes members) offers new classes, including Master Movers, CitiSports and CitiMoves. Older kids can literally hit the wall - the club's state-of-the-art climbing wall. And for those of you who have fled to the burbs, Citibabes is opening a second Scarsdale location in late August.

Support the local economy.

Citibabes, 52 Mercer St. (bet. Broome and Grande), 1-800-697-0107, citibabes.com.
